WORKSHOP FACILITATORS

Exploring & Navigating the New Language Curriculum

Have you had the time to begin reading the new English Language Curriculum? The new Language curriculum frames explicit instruction of foundational language skills as a critical element of equitable education. In this workshop, we will explore the principles underlying this new document, break down the essential components and highlight some of the critical changes that educators need to know and consider as they move forward with practical implementation. We will provide evidence-based guidance that will help educators support students in becoming proficient readers and writers who experience the joy and possibility that literacy learning can ignite.
